Recommendation Letter for Ehsan Khoramshahi

Ehsan worked as a student in the Doctoral Programme in Computer Science formally as a student under my supervision, but in practise he worked outside the university as a full-time researcher at the Finnish Geospatial Research Institute (FGI) under supervision of Research Professor Eija Honkavaara. My role in the supervision was very small, as can be seen from the publication list. However, the topic was interesting enough from the perspective of my field of expertise, so I accepted to work as the formal supervising professor when Ehsan's original supervisor moved abroad, and I made sure that the publications and the thesis fulfil the requirements of our doctoral programme.

I found Ehsan to be an extremely pleasant person to work with, and as a researcher, very imaginative and proactive, but as I have not been actively following Ehsan's career after his graduation, and the research field is not too close to mine, I'm afraid I cannot properly assess the impact of his scientific contributions after his graduation.

Yours sincerely,

Petri Myllymäki, Professor, Department of Computer Science, University of Helsinki
